SELECT ADMINISTRATIVE ROLES

Program Officer, Science of Science: Discovery, Communication, and Impact, National Science Foundation, 2021 – current

Responsibilities: Oversee all SOS:DCI program aspects including mission updates, communications with research community, grant application support and processing, identification of peer reviewers, and processing of grant review, selection, and funding recommendations. Conducted outreach to university and research communities and represented NSF on initiatives related to evidence-based policy making, engaged research, and open science and public access. Manage and coordinate with NSF staff to process grant proposals, fund awards, and conduct post award grant management and oversight. Work with other NSF programs to co-fund interdisciplinary projects and develop cross-directorate initiatives. Work with external partners including the NIH, William T Grant Foundation, National Academies of Science, European Union, and Office of Science & Technology Policy. Manage and oversee submissions, review, and make recommendations for SciSIPBIO/SoS:Bio program – a partnership with the NIH NIGMS. Served as interim program officer for NCSSES Research on the Science and Technology Enterprise: Indicators, Statistics, and Methods program. Served on multiple program officer search committees and cross-directorate initiatives and working groups – in particular those with a focus on broadening participation, data science, and open science and public access.

Accomplishments: Co-funding awards with more than 15 partner programs. Raised more than 35% in additional funds for grant support in fiscal year 2023. Extended funding portfolio to three states not previously receiving SOS funds. Raised the profile of the SOS:DCI program within and outside the NSF.

Editor, Journal of Public Administration Research and Theory, 2019 - current Responsibilities: Oversee all journal operations and decision-making. Build and lead a team of 9 Associate Editors, 60+ Editorial Board members, and four graduate assistants. Assess community demands and journal strengths and weaknesses. Propose and oversee annual budget for journal activities. Coordinate and communicate with Oxford University Press, Public Management Research Association, authors, reviewers, and staff. Manage and execute all public relations, journal representation at academic conferences, website update, and social media posts and communications. Collect, write, and disseminate performance data and annual reports. Plan and participate in multiple international workshops to develop manuscripts and scholarship in Hong Kong; Bogotá, Colombia; Sao Paulo, Brazil; and Aarhus, Denmark.

Accomplishments: Established and manage journal Twitter account with more than 5200 followers. Initiated community survey to guide revision of JPART mission and priorities. Increased diversity of leadership team and Editorial Board to be more representative of the research community by nation, institution, methodological approach, gender, race, and ethnicity. Increased Impact Factor from 3.289 in 2019 to 6.160 in 2022. Initiated annual Outstanding Reviewer awards. Hosted multiple online seminars with more than 200 participants each. Expanded inclusion of high-quality qualitative research methods and nonprofit research. Expanded the reviewer pool by more than 100 individuals each year over five years.

PhD Director, PhD program, School of Public Affairs, ASU, 2017-2020

Responsibilities: Manager curriculum updates and teaching assignments. Coordinate committee to conduct annual comprehensive exams, student reviews, teaching reviews, program promotion, and admissions.

Accomplishments: Developed platform for training and information sharing for job market. Organized weekly PhD student meetings. Conducted professional development seminar covering topics such as writing, teaching, DEIA and work-life balance.

Associate Director, Center for Science, Technology & Environmental Policy Studies, 2014-2021

Responsibilities: Grant writing and execution. Design, manage, and execute multi-year research projects. Collaborate with faculty, postdoctoral scholars, and students on research projects. Data collection, cleaning, and analysis. Manage team dynamics and train and support early career scholars. Design and update public facing research materials including policy briefs, websites, social media accounts, annual reports, and media interviews. Provide mentoring and support to early career scholars on the academic and professional job market.
