FEDERALLY FUNDED GRANTS

2019-2023 Standard Research Grant $200,000

PI: Stacia N. Stolzenberg (FP00016765)

National Science Foundation

Title: "Did your mom help you remember?" Children's Understanding of Indirect Attacks on Credibility

Using mixed-methods, this grant examines how children are subtly questioned about their credibility when alleging abuse. To do so, the research team will examine how children are questioned in recent cases and then conduct laboratory experiments to assess the utility of current practices, as well as viable alternatives.

2017-2022 R01

PI: Thomas D. Lyon (1R01HD087685-01A1)

$2,921,325

National Institute of Health

Title: Facilitating Completeness in Children's Maltreatment Disclosures

Subawards to Dr. Stolzenberg as ASU, Dr. Jodi Quas at UCI, and Dr. Steven Clark at UCR

ASU subaward amount across grant period: $426,323.

This grant combines field observational research, laboratory experimental research, and field experimental research in an attempt to identify the most successful child interviewing approaches.

2017-2019 Early Career Program in the Social & Behavioral Sciences

$149,857

PI: Stacia N. Stolzenberg (2016-R2-CX-0050)

National Institute of Justice

Title: Children's Allegations of Sexual Abuse in Criminal Trials: Assessing Defense Attacks on Credibility and Identifying Effective Prosecution Methods

This grant examines recent cases of child sexual abuse prosecuted in Maricopa County, Arizona. Children's criminal trial testimonies are systematically examined to assess how children's credibility is established and questioned, with a particular focus on how children respond to attorney questioning.

2018	College of Public Service & Community Solutions Grant PI: Stacia N. Stolzenberg	$15,000 Arizona State University
------	---	--------------------------------------

This grant funds pilot data collection, both in the laboratory and in the field, to assess how children can understand subtle attacks on credibility. Co-investigators include Dr. Angela Evans at Brock University.

Title: Interviewing Children about Sexual Abuse

The goal of this project was to question children suspected of being sexually abused, and their caretakers, about potential influences on children's disclosures. The findings furthered understanding of the dynamics of sexual abuse, disclosure, and the decision-making process underlying legal intervention.

2020-2021	Office of the University Provost	$5,000
	PIs: Kevin Wright & Stacia Stolzenberg	Arizona State University

This grant is for an inclusive pedagogy intervention. In many traditional college classes, the first day (or module for online) is dedicated to procedural agreements, via covering the syllabus. We are working to reimagine this introduction with some of the faculty in our unit. We want faculty and students to see the first day of class (or first module for online learners) as launching learning, by engaging students through various instructional methods that can help increase experiential learning and interest in the course from the outset.

EVALUATION EXPERIENCE

2017-2018	Advanced Forensic Investigation Training Contractor	Center for Child Well-Being Arizona State University
Collaborated with the School of Social Work's Center for Child Well-Being at Arizona State University, to help design and implement an evaluation assessing the quality and productivity of Arizona's advanced interviewing for those who conduct forensic interviews with children in the field.
2010-2012	Geographical Distribution Program Co-Primary Investigator	Edmund Edelman Children's Court Los Angeles, CA
This project was commissioned by Judge Henry to assess the implementation and impact of the geographic assignment of cases. We conducted two phases of an evaluation to see how the geographical distribution program impacted courtroom efficiency and collaboration, as well as courtroom staff's knowledge of requirements and roles.

CLINICAL EXPERIENCE

2005-2008	Sexual Assault Victim's Counselor Supervisor: Dawn Foor	Orange County Community Service Program
Worked with Anaheim Memorial Hospital to support victims of sexual assault when they were taken for forensic examinations and forensic interviews. I provided crisis counseling, referrals, and advice on the criminal justice system.
