Profile

Climate Justice Reporter and Sustainability Advocate with seven years of experience across grassroots organizing and public policy. I uniquely leverage a strong background in data analytics and IT systems to deliver rigorous, data-driven environmental reporting solutions in developing nations specifically Uganda.

My frontline commentary on climate migration, food justice and climate justice has been published globally by TIME Magazine, One.org, and Global Citizen. I combine field-based perspective with advanced investigative and technical skills to track environmental policy, combat climate misinformation, and report on cross-border migration.
