AREAS OF SPECIALIZATION

- + NORMATIVE ETHICS: teleology, maximalism, consequentialism, consequentializing, supererogation, moral worth, virtuous motivation, special obligations (i.e., associative duties), agent-centered options, agent-centered constraints/restrictions, paradox of deontology, duty of beneficence, moral dilemmas, self-other asymmetry, agent-relative/agent-neutral distinction, actualism versus possibilism, the problem of overdetermination, the puzzle of plural obligation, the principle of moral harmony, perfect and imperfect duties, the distinction between moral and non-moral reasons, making a difference, and the problem of causal impotency.
- + REASONS AND RATIONALITY: weighing reasons, pattern-based reasons, reasons-responsiveness, transmission of reasons, reasons to be moral, underdetermination by reasons, what we just plain ought to do (all things considered), different types of strength a reason can have (enticing, requiring, and justifying), reasons and obligations with respect to attitudes and their relationship to reasons and obligations with respect to actions, the self-torturer puzzle, the wrong-kind-of-reasons problem, the basic belief, time and rationality, the rationality and fittingness of emotions, the relationship between reasons with respect to more and less specific options, and whether ‘reason’ implies ‘can’.
- + ACTION, AGENCY, ATTITUDES, AND RESPONSIBILITY: accountability, action theory, moral luck, mental agency, reactive attitudes, moral responsibility, guilt and shame, accounts of blame, collective action problems, the connection between blame and desert, the connection between moral requirements and blameworthiness, the connection between control and moral responsibility, reasons-responsiveness, rational capacities, attitudes and fittingness, the toxin puzzle, rational control versus volitional control, and obligations and responsibilities with respect to reasons-responsive attitudes (e.g., beliefs, desires, and intentions).
- + METAETHICS: moral rationalism, internalism versus externalism, the putative overridingness of morality, ‘ought’ implies ‘can’, the relationship between morality and self-interest, and informal deontic logic (e.g., the inheritance principle, Ross’s paradox, Professor Procrastinate, the paradox of gentle murder, the problem of act versions, etc.).

- ✦ VALUE THEORY: final value, intrinsic value, value pluralism, the concept of wellbeing, theories of wellbeing, the principle of organic unities, the wrong-kind-of-reasons problem, the value of achievement, the shape-of-a-life phenomenon, and the buck-passing account of value.
- ✦ APPLIED ETHICS: problems involving collective harm, effective altruism, collective action, and causal impotence (e.g., voting, eating meat, and climate change), obligations to distant strangers, obligations to future generations (e.g., total principle, non-identity problem, mere addition paradox, repugnant conclusion), and the ethics of eating meat.
- ✦ METAPHYSICS OF DEATH: posthumous harm, the badness of death, and the alleged asymmetry between pre-vital and postmortem nonexistence.

AREAS OF COMPETENCE

- ✦ Bioethics, Introductory Symbolic Logic, and the History of Modern Philosophy.
